How much food should I get? As there is not an exact answer for this here are a few guidelines. Plan enough for most people to take a little of each item, our servings are based on an average serving size. If you know you have big eaters, plan for some of the items to be heartier and order a little more of those, such as one of our more popular items Mac and Cheese! If you know of any people that have allergies, ask us about an alternative. Typically, personal parties will require more food than corporate events. If you need some help figuring it out just ask and we will be more than happy to assist.
